

Reviser: Akin C.

Index

Character Profile.....	2
Biographies.....	2
BG and BG2.....	2
IWD.....	3
Voice lines.....	4
Selection & Action.....	4
Annoyed/Informative.....	4
Combat.....	4
Damage.....	5
Environment & Situational.....	5

Character Profile

Attributes	Value	Notes
Name	Elaya Blackfayr	"Blackfayr" sounds like "Blackfire" and is a strong-sounding human name. It is fitting for a cook's daughter (a cook works with fire).
Race	Human	-----
Profession	Druid or Ranger	A Druid serves as a link between civilization and nature, which fits well within human societies.
Age	22	-----
Primary Weapons	Quarterstaff	A classic weapon for a cook when hunting rats; it is similar in feel to a broomstick.
Appearance(Hair)	Reddish-brown hair and freckles	Fits her hot-headed personality. The freckles show she has spent much more time under the sun than inside.

Biographies

BG and BG2

Elaya Blackfayr spent her entire life in Candlekeep until her adventures with <CHARNAME> began. She is the daughter of a cook in Candlekeep and a gardener in Beregost. Elaya lived mainly in Candlekeep, where she helped her mother; however, she occasionally visited her father (as her parents are divorced), learning from him the beauty of gardening. While in Candlekeep, she also loved to tend to the animals in the stalls.

Elaya's hot-headed personality often resulted in her criticizing careless visitors and residents when they trampled beautiful flowers, harmed animals, or threw waste into the gardens of Candlekeep. Her temper often escalated to the point where Elaya's mother needed to apologize for her daughter in hindsight.

Frustrated by her rare role as a protector of the wildlife in Candlekeep, she often turned to <CHARNAME> for support. <CHARNAME> was always ready to listen patiently and, when present, also protected Elaya in various ways. Realizing this, Elaya often cared for <CHARNAME> by tending <CHARNAME>'s wounds and offering protection in return. Over the years, they developed a habit of protecting one another and listening to each other's worries and complaints.

Reviser: Akin C.

Thus, following <CHARNAME> on their adventures required no second thought from her. It offered Elaya Blackfayr the chance to visit her father more often and to take a more active role in protecting the natural world.

IWD

Elaya Blackfayr is the daughter of a cook in Candlekeep and a gardener in Beregost. Elaya lived mainly in Candlekeep, where she helped her mother; however, she occasionally visited her father (as her parents are divorced), learning from him the beauty of gardening. While in Candlekeep, she also loved to tend to the animals in the stalls.

Elaya's hot-headed personality often resulted in her criticizing careless visitors and residents when they trampled beautiful flowers, harmed animals, or threw waste into the gardens of Candlekeep. Her temper often escalated to the point where Elaya's mother needed to apologize for her daughter in hindsight.

From her father, she heard of a massive tree in the north that grows so high its branches seem to touch the stars. At first, it was amazing to hear but hard to believe; she questioned the monks in Candlekeep about this place, and they validated its existence with something even grander—mentioning that people had built a city within its roots. Ever since, Elaya could not stop thinking about visiting this place.

Her mother, strict and disciplined by nature, realized this growing desire in her daughter. Though she often blamed Elaya for her inappropriate, hot-headed behavior, she still loved her wholeheartedly. She asked the monks, visitors, and everyone she deemed capable to teach Elaya about self-defense and the world outside, knowing that as a cook, she could only teach her so much.

When Elaya Blackfayr reached the point where she could no longer stay in Candlekeep, she began her journey toward that mysterious place in the North—a land of unforgiving cold and winds found on the Spine of the World. It was time for her to travel to Icewind Dale.

Reviser: Akin C.

Voice lines

Selection & Action

Line	Tone Focus
On it, like a wolf on the hunt.	Focused and sharp (Action)
Let's go.	Energetic and determined (Action)
Will do!	Brisk and helpful (Action)
Naturally.	Confident and slightly dry (Action)
Wandering and scanning like a cat.	Quiet and alert (Action)
Sounds balanced.	Satisfied and practical (Action)
Mhm.	Short and compliant (Action)
You need my protection?	Protective and slightly challenging (Selection)
Are you hurt?	Sincere and concerned (Selection)
What are you cooking in your mind?	Inquisitive and playful (Selection)
Hm?	Attentive and ready (Selection)
Be mindful.	Stern and warning (Selection)
Nature strives for balance.	Calm and philosophical (Selection)

Annoyed/Informative

Line	Tone Focus
I understand that your nature has its demands, but stop touching me!	Playfully annoyed
Maybe I should try this new "health" tincture on you, to see if it heals your mentally unbalanced ailment.	Teasingly clinical and mischievous
Everything in nature is important. I realized that when things started perishing in front of me.	Softly reflective
In the grand play of gods and other powerful beings, even they must follow nature's rules. This becomes evident when the undiscriminating moment of death knows no bounds and remains part of the Great Circle.	Philosophical

Combat

Line	Tone Focus
I will strike you like thunder!	Cocky and high-energy (Battlecry)
I will teach you nature's respect!	Playful and slightly sarcastic (Battlecry)
Your death will nourish nature.	Witty and suggestive (Battlecry)
Rawr!	Humorous (Battlecry)
Under the earth with you.	Smug and defiant (Battlecry)
Yes, nature is with me!	Triumphant and enthusiastic (Critical Hit)
No! How could I miss?	Annoyed (Critical Miss)
I lost my balance, and with it, my spell.	Exaggeratedly annoyed (Lost Spell)
This immunity is unnatural!	Frustrated and observant (Enemy Immune)

Reviser: Akin C.

Damage

Line	Tone Focus
Uh, I must be careful.	Sharp and impatient (Getting Hit)
I need protection! My wounds are too heavy!	Urgent and uncharacteristically vulnerable (Heavily Injured)
My life ends here... farewell!	Quiet and solemn (Death)
Your loss pains me, but nature does not know losses.	Fierce and vengeful (Party Member Dies)

Environment & Situational

Line	Tone Focus
The woods offer everything we need. This is where I feel most alive.	Peaceful and deeply sincere (Nature)
This dark place is not meant to be here. We must cleanse it.	Grim and determined (Dungeon)
The people in cities have mostly forgotten how to live with nature. They have forgotten what and who they are.	Judgmental and pitying (City)
I love being outside on a sunny day. The sun gifts us with life and warmth.	Content and unusually soft (Daytime)
Do not fear the dark. Like the day, the night is part of our life.	Bold and encouraging (Nighttime)
Every living creature needs sleep. We are no exception. Let's rest.	Whiny and melodramatic (Tired)
I am convinced; this is the right choice.	Supportive and loyal (Leader)
I may carry nature's burden, but my inventory is full.	Exasperated and witty (Inventory Full)
Like a lurking fox.	Mischiefous and whispered (Hiding)
A well-placed donation.	Sarcastic and cheeky (Stealing)
A fair trap is set.	Focused and professional (Setting a Trap)
Are we finished watching grass grow?	Impatient and snarky (Bored)